TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I'm delighted to send greetings to St Andrew's on their 25th Anniversary. I've greatly valued the opportunities it has provided for scholarly and ecumenical conversations and I like to think that I have picked up something of the College's hopeful and dynamic spirit along the way. Today's challenges are different from those of 25 years ago, but I am confident St Andrew's will continue to flourish as a centre of learning, fellowship, and research and providing an important platform for theological conversations between East and West.
